FILM

James Whale Film Fest

Whale, best known for his classic horror films, like The Bride of Frankenstein, was one of the first relatively openly-gay directors in Hollywood. A few of his more romantic films have slipped into the public domain.

<https://archive.org/details/je4449004441124>

Title: Journey's End (1930)

Summary: In France, 1917, an alcoholic captain is afraid that his new replacement, his sweetheart's brother, will betray his downfall.

Directed by: James Whale

Actors: Colin Clive, Ian Maclaren, David Manners

https://archive.org/details/Wives_under_Suspicion_1938

Warren William, Ralph Morgan, William Lundigan, Milburn Stone, Gail Patrick, Constance Moore
A prosecuting attorney treats every homicide case as first degree murder and uses miniature replicas of human skulls to tally the death sentences that he garners. Then he himself is beset by the urge to murder. An above-average public domain film from Universal Pictures.

<https://archive.org/details/SinnersinParadise>

1938

Madge Evans as Anne Wesson

John Boles as Jim Taylor

Bruce Cabot as Robert (The Torpedo) Malone

Marion Martin as Iris Compton

Gene Lockhart as Senator John P. Corey

Milburn Stone as T.L. Honeyman

A seaplane heading for China crashes and its disparate passengers are washed ashore on an isolated island inhabited solely by mysteriously reclusive Mr. Taylor and his servant.
